New York-WASHINGTON-Paris.

Friday Is Remnant Day.

E are more particular, if possible, than ever about keeping our stocks free from remnant accumulations. We therefore go over the various departments very carefully each week and withdraw all odds and ends, one-of-a-kind articles, broken sizes and assortments, short lengths, mussed, scratched and dented goods, everything that is not fresh and perfect, and offer them at reduced prices—such low prices as usually sell them before the store closes.

By this means you are enabled to secure useful remnants—things that fit right into the personal or home needs-that are in good condition, because they are not allowed to remain in stock long enough to become shopworn or undesirable. And we are enabled to offer at the beginning of each week just such bright, fresh, attractive merchandise as you want and have a right to expect.

Our remnant list this week is very attractive, and consists in part of the following splendid bar-

Farman and Pelterie Both Successful. PARIS. October 24.-Many distinguished aeronauts, including Archduke Salvatore were present on the Issyles Moulineaux military parade grounds yesterday afternoon when Mr. Henry Farman continued his experiments with his aeroplane. The condition of the ground was heavy in the extreme, but notwithstanding this Mr. Farman succeeded in making about half a dozen flights. The new propeller, of greater diameter than the old one, has given the machine additional lifting power and almost immediately the engine was started the plane left the ground, and, at an altitude varying from two to six meters, covered a distance of 189 meters. The steadiness of the machine was ap-parent to all. It traveled through the air parent to all. It traveled through the air without the rolling motion generally associated with these machines in previous flights. But during the second flight, which appeared at the outset to be likely to be of record-breaking duration, Mr. Farman had bad luck.

While progressing the machine began to turn slightly in the air. There was a dense crowd to both right and left, and, worse still, an automobile, temporarily abandoned by its owner, was in his path. The only way out of the difficulty was to swerve. This Mr. Farman accomplished brilliantly, but in doing so one wheel touched the ground for a moment. Realizing that the flight from a record point of view had been spoiled, he stopped the motor. The machine couldn't be induced at any of the succeeding attempts to fly at any of the succeeding attempts to fly more than 100 or 150 meters at a time

Among those present were Don Jaime de Bourbon, Comte de La Vauix, Lord and Lady Northeliffe, Comte d'Agoult and Pelterie's Machine.

Experiments with aeroplanes are taking place daily in every part of France, more especially in the neighborhood of Paris. Aeronautical circles are much interested in the remarkable machine constructed by M. Esnault Pelterie. M. Esnault Pelterie has studied aviation for two or three years, and has preferred to go slowly. On Tuesday, it appears, he was able to make a series of flights of 150 meters, turn in the air, avoid obstacles and to rise and descend at will. His machine is described as half automobile and half aeropiane. It runs along the ground steadily and, when required, leaves the ground and ffles.

In shape it resembles a butterfly. Its wings are movable. They can be inclined by means of levers and in this way curves can be accomplished with safety. curves can be accomplished with safety.

There are wheels at the tip of each wing, so that even if in taking a curve one of the wings came in contact with the ground it would not be broken. It would roll on the wheel and escape dam-

The motor starts at the first turn and causes no trouble.

A four-bladed propeller, placed at the front of the machine, has been adopted. The apparatus weighs barely 300 kilos with the aviator on board.
